ODDS OF WINNING

This is a skills-based contest and chance plays no part in the determination of Essay Round winners. The odds of being named among the highest scoring Essay Round Entrants may vary greatly and depend on the number of Entries received and the quality of the Entries.

JUDGING CRITERIA AND PARTICIPATION OPTIONS

Each Entry will be evaluated by Judges selected by the Sponsor and Regional Hosts. Each Judge will use the 100-point judging rubric provided on the online submission page and in the Essay Application Guide \(linked\) to evaluate each Entry. The judging rubric made part of these rules sets forth the points and percentage weight attributed to each of the criteria. Criteria covered in the rubric include: "Clearly identifies and articulates a specific community opportunity, problem, or challenge with depth and insight" (20 points); "Clearly outlines thoughtful, logical, and well-sequenced steps to address the issue in a unique or innovative way" (20 points); "Identifies meaningful civic resources, people, and groups, opposing viewpoints, and clearly connects them to the plan" (20 points); "Clearly connects the solution to specific founding principles and civic virtues with strong reasoning" (30 points); "Uses well-researched information and references effectively to support the essay" (10 points).

Each Entry will be assigned to a Regional Host organization that is responsible for hosting either a Regional or Statewide Competition. The highest scoring Entries assigned to each Regional Host will be selected as the regional finalists, will be notified via email and/or phone, and will be invited to participate in their respective National Civics Bee Regional Competition or National Civics Bee Statewide Competition if no Regional Competition exists. All Regional, State, and Statewide Competitions are subject to separate rules, terms, and conditions.

RESPECTFUL CONTENT REQUIREMENT

Central to the National Civics Bee is the belief that civic engagement begins with thoughtful dialogue. This competition encourages students to express their views and analyze issues in ways that elevate the conversation and foster mutual understanding. To support this, we've provided the following content requirement to promote respectful debate and critical thinking.

When addressing community issues, essays should focus on the nature and impact of problems and challenges and must avoid blaming, disparaging, identifying as the cause of the problem or as a contributor to the problem, or otherwise criticizing any specific individual, company, organization, governmental body, or government official, by name or in any other identifiable manner ("Targeted Criticisms"). Submissions that include Targeted Criticisms may be disqualified or other appropriate action may be taken, all in the sole and absolute discretion of the contest administrators. This requirement supports the competition's mission to promote constructive civic dialogue and respectful engagement with community issues.

Illustrative Examples:

Acceptable: "There are only a few activities for teens in our town, which can lead to boredom and risky behavior."

May be disqualified: "The Parks Director refuses to build anything fun for teens."

Acceptable: "There is limited access to internet in our town, which makes it difficult to do homework."

May be disqualified: "Internet Provider X is horrible and should go out of business."
